1 JURISDICTIONAL STATEMENT

2 This is an appeal from an order entered on June 25, 1965, 3 and an order nunc pro tunc entered June 25, 1965, by the 4 United States District Court for the Southern District of 5 California, Central Division, granting a "temporary injunction
6 against these Appellants. (TR 199, 201 - 204) Appellants
7 appeal only from Paragraph (c) of the Order Granting Temporary

Injunction (TR 204, lines 1 - 6) and from Paragraph (c) of the Order Nunc Pro Tunc. (TR 199, lines 23 - 32 and TR 200, lines 1 - 2) The underlying action was brought by the Appellant Regional Director for and on behalf of the National Labor Relations Board to enjoin these Appellants from the commission of acts which the said Regional Director alleged he had reasonable cause to believe were in violation of Section 8(e) of the National Labor Relations Act, as amended, 29 U.S.C. Section 158(e), 48 Stat. 944. The District Court's jurisdiction was invoked under Section 10(1) of the National Labor Relations Act, 29 U.S.C. Section 160(1), 48 Stat. 946. Notice of Appeal was filed in the District Court by these Appellants on June 25, 1965 (TR 224 - 225), and this Court by its order dated July 2, 1965, as corrected July 14, 1965, has ordered the case expedited pursuant to Section 10 of the Norris-LaGuardia Act, 29 U.S.C. Section 110, 47 Stat. 70.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

1. The Facts of This Case: The Regional Director of the National Labor Relations Board, on January 8, 1965, petitioned the District Court for an injunction preventing these Appellants and Appellee, Food Employers Council, Inc., from "maintaining, giving effect to, demanding arbitration of, submitting to arbitration, or enforcing Article I, Sections A, B and F(1) and (2)" of a labor agreement entered into between these Appellants and Appellee on or about April 1, 1964, (TR 18, Government's Exhibit 1, and Petitioner's Exhibit 1) insofar as these clauses require employees of persons doing business with the Appellee Food Employers Council to become members of Appellant Unions' bargaining unit as a condition to performing work in retail food markets. Prior to the filing of the present petition, on June 30, 1964, the then Acting Regional Director of the 21st Region of the National Labor Relations Board filed a similar petition, in substance alleging the unlawfulness of the same clauses of the labor agreement. (TR 15) On the same date, these Appellants, Ap-pellee, Appellant Local Unions 324, 899, 1167, 1428 and 1442, and Appellant National Labor Relations Board entered into a stipulation to refrain from unfair labor practices, which stipulation was approved by the court and filed on the same date. (TR 15) Thereafter, on November 10, 1964, Appellant Retail Clerks Union, Local No. 770, demanded of Appellee implementation of the grievance and arbitration procedure of the labor agreement and on November 24, 1964, filed a complaint for injunctive relief and for order compelling arbitration in the Superior Court of the State of California for the County of Los Angeles. (TR 16) The Regional Director then took the position that the said complaint was in violation of the stipulation to refrain from unfair labor practices entered into June 30, 1964, and therefor filed the present petition. (TR

16) Prior to issuance of the Order Granting Temporary Injunction in this case, the action in the Superior Court was dismissed. (Reporter's Transcript, p. 20)

2. The Proceedings before the National Labor Relations Board: Pursuant to Section 10(b) of the Labor Management Relations Act, as amended, 29 U.S.C. 160(b), 48 Stat. 926, a hearing has been conducted before a Trial Examiner of the Board in which participated all Appellant Unions, Appellant National Labor Relations Board, and the parties appearing on this appeal as amici curiae in which these Appellants vigorously defended the legality of the clauses in issue. (Reporter's Transcript, p. 8) The parties hereto await the recommendation of the Trial Examiner and action upon his recommendation by the Board.

3. The Proceedings in the District Court: After the filing of the petition for injunctive relief and prior to May 27, 1965, a stipulation entered into by the petitioner and all respondents was lodged with the District Court for its approval. (TR 160) Under the terms of this stipulation, these Appellant Unions and Appellee agreed to refrain from enforcing in any manner the clauses of the labor agreement alleged to be violative of the Act. Specifically it was agreed with the National Labor Relations Board that any arbitration award secured by any of the Appellant Unions or by Appellee touching upon the said clauses would be in no way effectuated until submitted to the Regional Director of the 21st Region of the Board and he had determined such award was neither repugnant to

1 nor violative of Section 8(e) of the Act, cited supra. (TR
2 162) In addition, it was agreed in the stipulation that,
3 should the Regional Director subsequently have reasonable 4 cause to believe that any of the provisions of the stipulation 5 were violated, he could, upon affidavit and without notice to 6 the other parties to the stipulation, request the court to 7 enter a temporary injunction in the form attached as Exhibit 8 A to the stipulation. (TR 162, 164 - 167) On May 27, the 9 District Court, the Honorable Peirson Hall, Presiding, filed 10 its Memorandum Decision denying the request for approval of 11 the stipulation. (TR 168 - 169) Upon motion for reconsidera-
12 tion filed by the National Labor Relations Board June 3, 13 1965 (TR 170), the court again ruled, on June 14, 1965, that 14 the injunctive relief to be granted in response to the petition 15 "should include an order enjoining the proceeding with the 16 arbitration." (Reporter's Transcript, p. 51) The order 17 signed, filed and entered by the court, June 24 and June 25,
18 1965, provided, in relevant part, that Appellants and Appellees 19 were enjoined and restrained from:

20 "(c) Engaging in or carrying on arbitration pro-21 ceedings now scheduled on or about July 5, 1965, 22 or at any other time submitting to arbitration or 23 arbitrating any issue or dispute arising out of 24 Article I of the Clerk's Agreement, including, but 25 not limited to, the seven points of dispute out-
26 lined in the letter of March 19, 1965, from Retail

Clerks Union, Local 770, to Robert K. Fox, President, Food Employers' Council, Inc." (TR 202, 205)

The letter of March 19 was an exhibit to a motion for leave to file points and authorities filed by Appellants. (TR 188)

On June 25, 1965, the District Court, at the request of a charging party (TR 195), signed, filed and entered an Order Nunc Pro Tunc changing Paragraph (c) of the Order Granting Temporary Injunction to read as follows:

"(c) Engaging in or carrying on arbitration proceedings now scheduled on or about July 5, 1965, or at any other time submitting to arbitration or arbitrating any issue or dispute arising out of the provisions of Article I of an agreement dated March 14, 1964, between the Clerks and Employers and others, which are in dispute in proceedings before the National Labor Relations Board, and which pertain to the performance of work within the markets by employees of distributors, suppliers, rack-jobbers, or concessionaires, including, but not limited to, the seven points designated to be in dispute in a letter dated March 19, 1965, from the Retail Clerks Union 770 to the President of Food Employers' Counsel (sic)." 1 to cede to such agency jurisdiction over any cases 2 in any industry (other than mining, manufacturing,

4 predominantly local in character) even though such 5 cases may involve labor disputes affecting commerce, 6 unless the provision of the State or Territorial 7 statute applicable to the determination of such cases 8 by such agency is inconsistent with the corresponding 9 provision of this Act or has received a construction 10 inconsistent therewith."

11 C. Section 10(b), 29 U.S.C. 160(b) provides:

12 "Whenever it is charged that any person has en-
13 gaged in or is engaging in any such unfair labor 14 practice, the Board, or any agent or agency designated 15 by the Board for such purposes, shall have power to 16 issue and cause to be served upon such person a 17 complaint stating the charges in that respect, and 18 containing a notice of hearing before the Board or 19 a member thereof, or before a designated agent or 20 agency, at a place therein fixed, not less than five 21 days after the serving of said complaint; Provided, 22 That no complaint shall issue based upon any unfair 23 labor practice occurring more than six months prior 24 to the filing of the charge with the Board and the 25 service of a copy thereof upon the person against 26 whom such charge is made, unless the person aggrieved

1 thereby was prevented from filing such charge by 2 reason of service in the armed forces, in which 3 event the six-month period shall be computed from 4 the day of his discharge. Any such complaint may 5 be amended by the member, agent, or agency conduct-6 ing the hearing or the Board in its discretion at 7 any time prior to the issuance of an order based 8 thereon. The person so complained of shall have the 9 right to file an answer to the original or amended 10 complaint and to appear in person or otherwise and 11 give testimony at the place and time fixed in the 12 complaint. In the discretion of the member, agent, 13 or agency conducting the hearing or the Board, any 14 other person may be allowed to intervene in the said
15 proceeding and to present testimony. Any such pro-16 ceeding shall, so far as practicable, be conducted 17 in accordance with the rules of evidence applicable 18 in the district courts of the United States under 19 the rules of civil procedure for the district courts
20 of the United States, adopted by the Supreme Court
21 of the United States pursuant to the Act of June 22 19, 1934 (U.S.C., title 28, secs. 723-B, 723-C)."

23 D. Section 10(1), 29 U.S.C. 160(1) provides:

24 "Whenever it is charged that any person has en-
25 gaged in an unfair labor practice within the meaning 26 of paragraph (4)(A), (B), or (C) of section 8(b), or

1 section 8(e) or section 8(b)(7), the preliminary in-2 vestigation of such charge shall be made forthwith
3 and given priority over all other cases except cases
4 of like character in the office where it is filed
5 or to which it is referred. If, after such investi-
6 gation, the officer or regional attorney to whom the 7 matter may be referred has reasonable cause to believe 8 such charge is true and that a complaint should issue, 9 he shall, on behalf of the Board, petition any dis-
10 trict court of the United States (including the Dis-11 trict Court of the United States for the District of 12 Columbia) within any district where the unfair labor 13 practice in question has occurred, is alleged to have 14 occurred, or wherein such person resides or trans-
15 acts business, for appropriate injunctive relief 16 pending the final adjudication of the Board with 17 respect to such matter. Upon the filing of any such 18 petition the district court shall have jurisdiction
19 to grant such injunctive relief or temporary restrain-20 ing order as it deems just and proper, notwithstanding 21 any other provision of law: Provided further, That 22 no temporary restraining order shall be issued with-23 out notice unless a petition alleges that substantial 24 and irreparable injury to the charging party will 25 be unavoidable and such temporary restraining order 26 shall be effective for no longer than five days and

1 will become void at the expiration of such period.
2 Provided further, That such officer or regional 3 attorney shall not apply for any restraining order
4 under section 8(b)(7) if a charge against the employer 5 under section 8(a)(2) has been filed and after the 6 preliminary investigation, he has reasonable cause
7 to believe that such charge is true and that a com-
8 plaint should issue. Upon filing of any such peti-9 tion the courts shall cause notice thereof to be 10 served upon any person involved in the charge and 11 such person, including the charging party, shall be 12 given an opportunity to appear by counsel and present 13 any relevant testimony: Provided further, That for 14 the purposes of this subsection district courts shall 15 be deemed to have jurisdiction of a labor organiza-
16 tion (1) in the district in which such organization
17 maintains its principal office, or (2) in any dis-
18 trict in which its duly authorized officers or agents
19 are engaged in promoting or protecting the interests 20 of employee members. The service of legal process
21 upon such officer or agent shall constitute service
22 upon the labor organization and make such organiza-
23 tion a party to the suit. In situations where such 24 relief is appropriate the procedure specified herein
25 shall apply to charges with respect to section
26 8(b)(4)(D)."

II

THE NORRIS-LaGUARDIA, ANTI-INJUNCTION ACT, PUBLIC
LAW NO. 65, 72nd CONGRESS, 47 STAT. 70, 29 U.S.C.
101, ET SEQ., PROVIDES, IN PERTINENT PART, AS FOLLOWS:

A. Section 1, 29 U.S.C. Section 101, provides:

"No court of the United States, as herein defined, shall have jurisdiction to issue any restraining order or temporary or permanent injunction in a case involving or growing out of a labor dispute, except in a strict conformity with the provisions of this Act; nor shall any such restraining order or temporary or permanent injunction be issued contrary to the public policy declared in this Act."

B. Section 4, 29 U.S.C. Section 104, provides:

"No court of the United States shall have jurisdiction to issue any restraining order or temporary or permanent injunction in any case involving or growing out of any labor dispute to prohibit any person or persons participating or interested in such dispute (as these terms are herein defined) from doing, whether singly or in concert, any of the following acts:

* * * * *

"(d) By all lawful means aiding any person participating or interested in any labor dispute who is being proceeded against in, or is prosecuting, any

1 action or suit in any court of the United States
2 or of any State;

3 * * * * *

4 "(f) Assembling peaceably to act or to organize
5 to act in promotion of their interests in a labor
6 dispute;. . . ."

9 SPECIFICATION OF ERRORS RELIED ON

10 1. The District Court Erred in Granting Injunctive Re-11 lief to Persons Not Entitled Thereto and Not Parties to the 12 Action.

13 2. The District Court Erred in Refusing to Approve a 14 Stipulation in Settlement of the Petition for Injunctive Re-
15 lief Entered Into and Approved by the National Labor Relations 16 Board.

17 3. The District Court Erred in Enjoining Conduct Not 18 Complained of by the National Labor Relations Board and Not 19 Violative of the Labor Management Relations Act, As Amended.

20 4. The District Court Erred in Modifying or Changing the 21 Terms of its Order by an Order Nunc Pro Tunc.

22
24 QUESTIONS PRESENTED

25 1. Whether, in an action which can be brought only by 26 the National Labor Relations Board, the District Court may

1 treat private interests as parties petitioner and grant them
2 relief beyond that prayed for by the Board.

3 2. Whether the Labor Management Relations Act, as 4 amended, grants jurisdiction to the District Court in such a 5 proceeding to refuse to accept a settlement agreement deemed 6 by the National Labor Relations Board to be in the public
7 interest and expressly entered into and approved by the Board.

8 3. Whether the Labor Management Relations Act, as 9 amended, and the Norris-LaGuardia Anti-Injunction Act, pro-
10 hibit the District Court in such a proceeding from enjoining
11 conduct which the Board has not alleged to be an unfair labor
12 practice and which does not violate the Labor Management Rela-13 tions Act, as amended.

14 4. Whether the District Court may, under Federal Rule
15 of Civil Procedure 60(a), alter or modify the terms of a 16 judgment after entry thereof because the considered judgment 17 of the court was either legally or factually in error at the 18 time entered.

19
21 SUMMARY OF ARGUMENT

22 The Congress of the United States, in its enactments of 23 the Norris-LaGuardia Act and the Labor Management Relations 24 Act, constructed an exclusive procedure for the protection of 25 the rights of the public and of parties to labor disputes by 26 injunctive relief. Within this statutory scheme, only the

1 National Labor Relations Board may seek and obtain relief to 2 enjoin the commission of acts believed by the Board to be un-3 fair labor practices, and it does so in the pursuit of the 4 interest of the public welfare, not that of any private liti-
5 gant. Such functions as the Congress has conferred on the 6 Board may neither be usurped nor appropriated to obtain relief
7 in furtherance of an individual interest. If such usurpation
8 is allowed to occur, the District Court has been transformed 9 into a forum for the litigation of solely private interests 10 in contravention of the clear Congressional mandate.

11 If it is clear under the decisions of the United States 12 Supreme Court and of the Court of Appeals of this Circuit that 13 the power to initiate proceedings under Section 10(1) of the 14 Labor Management Relations Act and the discretion to name the 15 relief prayed for therein are functions assigned by the 16 Congress to the Board so that the public interest shall at 17 all times be represented by a public body, then it is equally 18 clear that the District Court cannot refuse its approval of 19 a settlement agreement proposed by the Board as furthering 20 the purposes of the Act and the public interest, in the ab-21 sence of a showing of grave injury to such purposes and such 22 interest.

23
24 I. THE LABOR MANAGEMENT RELATIONS ACT PROHIBITS THE ISSUANCE 25 OF INJUNCTIVE RELIEF UPON THE APPLICATION OF PRIVATE 26 PARTIES.

1 Section 10(1) of the Labor Management Relations Act, 2 cited supra, requires the Regional Director for the National 3 Labor Relations Board Board to petition the District Court
4 "for appropriate injunctive relief pending the final adjudica-
5 tion of the Board with respect to such matter." Elsewhere
6 in the Act, Section 10(a), cited supra, empowers the Board
7 "to prevent any person from engaging in any unfair labor 8 practice. . .affecting commerce." The Norris-LaGuardia Act, 9 enacted into law prior to the Labor Management Relations Act,
10 as amended, expressly denies to the District Court the juris-
11 diction to issue an injunction in a labor dispute which pro-12 hibits any person from "assembling peaceably to act or to 13 organize to act in promotion of their interests in a labor
14 dispute."

15 In interpreting these and other sections of the Labor 16 Management Relations Act relating to the jurisdiction of the 17 Board, the United States Supreme Court has consistently con-
18 strued such jurisdiction in the prosecution of an unfair labor
19 practice case to be exclusive. In Amalgamated Utilities
20 Workers v. Consolidated Edison, 309 U.S. 261, 60 S. Ct. 561,
21 84 L.ed. 738 (1940), in considering a petition of the Board 22 to enforce one of its orders, the court held:

23 "Congress was entitled to determine what 24 remedy it would provide, the way that remedy 25 should be sought, the extent to which it should 26 be afforded, and the means by which it should be

1 made effective.

2 "Congress declared that certain labor prac-
3 tices should be unfair, but it prescribed a partic-4 ular method by which such practices should be 5 ascertained and prevented. By the express terms
6 of the Act, the Board was made the exclusive agency 7 for that purpose." (309 U.S. at page 264)

8 In interpretation of the powers conferred upon the Board 9 by Section 10(a) of the Act, the court emphatically held:

10 "The Board as a public agency acting in the 11 public interest, not any private person or group, 12 not any employee or group of employees, is chosen 13 as the instrument to assure protection from the 14 described unfair conduct in order to remove ob-
15 structions to interstate commerce.

16 * * * * *

17 "What Congress said at the outset, that the 18 power of the Board to prevent any unfair labor 19 practice as described in the Act is exclusive, is 20 thus fully carried out at every state of the pro-
21 ceeding." (309 U.S. at pp. 265 - 266)

22 The Supreme Court has, in Sinclair Refining Co. v. Atkin-23 son, 370 U.S. 195, 82 S. Ct. 1428, 8 L.ed.2d 440 (1962), de-24 fined the position of Section 10(1) in the statutory scheme
25 composed of Norris-LaGuardia and the Labor Management Rela-26 tions Act. The court was there faced with the contention that

1 Section 301 of the Labor Management Relations Act, 29 U.S.C.
2 Section 185(a), 61 Stat. 156, empowered a private litigant
3 to seek injunctive relief in the District Court in an action 4 arising out of the violation of a labor agreement between an 5 employer and a union. Section 301(a) authorizes "suits for 6 violation of contracts between an employer and a labor organ-7 ization. . .", but the court specifically held that such an 8 action could not support a claim for injunctive relief hold-9 ing, 370 U.S. at p. 203:

10 "(Section 301) was not intended to have any such 11 partially repealing effect upon such a long-
12 standing, carefully thought out and highly signi-13 ficant part of this country's labor legislation."

14 It was specifically held in Sinclair Refining, Supra, 15 that Section 302(e) of the Labor Management Relations Act, 16 29 U.S.C. Section 186(e), 61 Stat. 157, "stands alone in ex-
17 pressly permitting suits for injunctions. . .by private liti-
18 gants. . . ." (370 U.S. at p. 205, FN 19) Section 302 re-19 lates to restrictions on payments to employee representatives 20 and is not in issue in this case.

21 The Supreme Court in Sinclair Refining, supra, inter-
22 preted the intent of Congress as expressed in the Norris-23 LaGuardia Act as "(leaving) not the slightest opening for 24 reading in any exceptions beyond those clearly written into it 25 by Congress itself." (370 U.S. at p. 202)

26 In accord, see also Capital Service, Inc. v. NLRB, 374

1 U.S. 501, 974 S. Ct. 700, 98 L.ed. 891 (1954); National Licor-
2 ice Co. v. NLRB, 309 U.S. 350, 60 S. Ct. 569, 84 L.ed. 799
3 (1940); Allen Bradley Co. v. Local Union No. 3, IBEW, 325 U.S.
4 797, 65 S. Ct. 1533, 89 L.ed. 1939 (1945); and NLRB v. Lewis
5 Food Co., 357 U.S. 10, 78 S. Ct. 1029, 2 L.ed.2d 1103 (1958), 6 affirming decision of the United States Court of Appeals for 7 the Ninth Circuit in NLRB v. Lewis Food Co. (1957), 249 F.2d 8 832.

9 The Supreme Court of the United States has not been 10 called upon to directly answer the questions which are here
11 involved. However, these Appellants believe and respectfully 12 urge that the holdings in Sinclair Refining, supra, and in 13 Amalgamated Utilities Workers, supra, compel the conclusion 14 that it must be, at all stages of the proceeding, the Regional 15 Director who is the moving party in securing the injunctive 16 relief sought.

17 The question of participation by those persons referred 18 to in Section 10(1) as "charging parties" has been presented 19 to the Court of Appeals for this Circuit and for the Second, 20 Fourth and Seventh Circuits. The Court of Appeals in each 21 Circuit has, in each case, held in accordance with the posi-22 tion urged by these Appellants.

23 In NLRB v. Retail Clerks International Association (C.A.
24 9, 1956), 243 F.2d 777, this Court, per Bone, C.J., held:

25 "We reach the conclusion that (the charging party)
26 has no standing to petition this court for injunctive

1 relief against what it alleges is conduct which 2 violates the decrees of this court." (Citing
3 Amalgamated Utilities Workers, 309 U.S. 261, supra.)

4 This court in deciding Retail Clerks International Asso-
5 ciation, supra, also relied upon Stewart Diecasting Corp. v.
6 NLRB (C.A. 7, 1942), 132 F.2d 801. This court properly inter-
7 preted Stewart Diecasting as holding that "the Seventh Circuit
8 recognizes that only the Board has standing to prosecute pro-9 ceedings in aid of its orders." (243 F.2d at 783) Also in 10 accord is the decision of the Court of Appeals for the Fourth
11 Circuit in Amazon Cotton Mills Co. v. Textile Workers Union
12 (1948), 167 F.2d 183.

13 The Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit in McLeod 14 v. Mechanics Conference Board (1962), 300 F.2d 237, has, per-15 haps, most exactly defined the position of the Regional Direc-
16 tor and that of the charging parties in Section 10(1) pro-17 ceedings in the following language:

18 "Section 10(1) is operative only upon the 19 filing of a petition by a Regional Director of 20 the Board. This limitation was imposed in order 21 to restrict the potential involvement of Federal 22 Courts in labor disputes. For that reason we do 23 not read it to allow consideration of issues not 24 raised by the Regional Director. To do otherwise 25 would not only increase the danger of over-
26 involvement on the part of the Federal Courts,

1 but would also ignore the expertise which Section
2 10(1) commands us to attribute to the Regional Direc-
3 tor. It is his view of the facts and law the Dis-
4 trict Judge is to evaluate in a Section 10(1) pro-5 ceeding. (Footnote omitted.) The courts are not 6 free to roam at will over every aspect of a labor 7 dispute upon the request of a charging party. We 8 believe, however, the principal role in these pro-
9 ceedings is to be played by the Regional Director 10 acting in the public interest, and while the charg-11 ing party is free to aid him in the course of the 12 litigation, the charging party may not substitute 13 itself as the principal complainant." (300 F.2d at 14 pp. 242 - 243)

15 The evidence in the case before this court is overwhelm-
16 ing that the District Court in issuing its Order Granting Tem-17 porary Injunction, including Paragraph (c) thereof, acted 18 solely upon the insistence of the charging parties in the 19 court below, amici curiae in this court. See, e.g., "Opposi-
20 tion of Intervenor, American Research Merchandising Insti-21 tute, et al.", filed May 19, 1965 (TR 156), "Opposition of 22 Teamsters Union to Approval of Settlement", filed May 10, 23 1965 (TR 128), followed by Memorandum of the Court Denying 24 Approval of the Stipulation, filed May 27, 1965 (TR 168).

25 It is clear that even the Order Nunc Pro Tunc correcting 26 Paragraph (c) of the Order Granting Temporary Injunction was

1 made solely upon the insistence and urging of the charging 2 parties who cannot, in any sense, be said to have been ag-
3 grieved by the original order. (See "Objections of Joint 4 Council of Teamsters, No. 42, to Proposed Order Granting Tem-
5 porary Restraining Injunction Lodged by Petitioner"; filed 6 June 23, 1965, at TR 195; and Order Nunc Pro Tunc, filed and 7 entered June 25, 1965, at TR 199.)

8 It is respectfully submitted that the participation by 9 these charging parties in securing the orders in the court 10 below is as complete participation as was sought by the 11 charging party, Safeway Company, in the case of Retail Clerks
12 International Association v. NLRB, decision of this court 13 cited supra. It is further submitted that if the charging 14 party, Safeway Company, in the Retail Clerks International 15 Association case was properly prohibited from such participa-
16 tion, then the court below has erred in fashioning its relief 17 in accordance with the desires of the charging parties in this 18 case.

19 20 II. THE INTENT OF THE CONGRESS IN THE ENACTMENT OF THE 21 LABOR MANAGEMENT RELATIONS ACT REQUIRES THAT THE 22 DISTRICT COURT APPROVE A SUITABLE SETTLEMENT OF AN 23 INJUNCTIVE PROCEEDING.

24 The stipulation to refrain from unfair labor practices
25 lodged with the court, disapproved and filed May 27, 1965
26 (TR 160), constitutes the agreement between the National Labor

1 Relations Board and all parties respondent in the court below,
2 that they will perform none of the acts listed in the prayer
3 of the petition (TR 17-18), which prayer, of course, seeks to 4 enjoin such activities. It is apparent from a study of the 5 exhibit to the stipulation, a form of temporary injunction
6 (TR 164 - 167) and from Paragraph 2 of the stipulation (TR 7 162, lines 16 - 26), that if the Regional Director should at 8 any time have reasonable cause to believe that the provisions 9 of the stipulation have been violated, he could, without any 10 notice whatsoever to these Appellants, have entered against 11 them a temporary injunction in the same form and to the same 12 extent as that originally prayed for in the petition. In 13 effect then the Regional Director and the respondents in the 14 court below agreed that all of the relief petitioned for could 15 be had by the Board at any time it so chose. The "Opposition 16 of Intervenors, American Research Merchandising Institute", 17 et al. (TR 156 - 160) discloses not a single reason, that the 18 stipulation lodged with the court in any way would prejudice 19 the rights of those parties, adversely affect the purposes of 20 the Labor Management Relations Act or operate to the detriment 21 of the public interest. The same may be said for the "Oppo-22 sition of Teamsters Union to Approval of Settlement". (TR
23 128) Indeed, the only mention that has been made in the court 24 below by any of the charging parties that injury might befall 25 anyone was the statement by counsel for one of the charging 26 parties at hearing in the District Court on June 14, 1965:

1 "We are very much disturbed. . .that there
2 will be still a new set of clauses that presump-3 tively will meet some of the objections of the 4 Government in this proceeding, and we don't want 5 to go through the Labor Board and then be told 6 again, if it isn't moot by that time,. . .an arbi-
7 trator had told them to sign a new agreement, you 8 have to start back at scratch again and see if you 9 can get the thing stayed while the Government looks 10 at this slightly modified clause." (Reporter's 11 Transcript, p. 22)

12 Counsel was apparently referring to one of the issues 13 contained in the letter of March 19 (TR 188) dealing with the 14 obligation, if any, of the parties to the labor agreement to 15 renegotiate provisions which may from time to time be in-16 validated as in conflict with any law, by a "court of last 17 resort". (See Government Exhibit 1, Article XXI, p. 18)

18 The thrust of such an arbitral demand was stated by 19 counsel for these Appellants at the hearing in the District
20 Court on June 14, 1965:

21 "It is our position, your Honor, that what 22 we are arbitrating here is ancillary and in no way
23 does violence to the National Labor Relations Act, 24 and it doesn't do violence to any one of the Sections.

25 * * * * *

26 "We don't intend to enforce or give effect to

1 the clause alleged to be a violation of the Act,
2 but we do propose to submit to the arbitrator
3 matters of contract interpretation which both 4 parties have agreed we can do."

5 In short, the court below was informed that the intent
6 of at least part of the arbitral demand was to place parties 7 to the labor agreement in the position referred to in the 8 contract requiring renegotiation of invalidated clauses. No-
9 where has it been contended that the "court of last resort"
10 language of the labor agreement is itself in any way viola-
11 tive of the Labor Management Relations Act, and it follows
12 that an attempt to invoke such language is protected activity 13 under the Act.

14 If the holding of McLeod v. Mechanics Conference Board, 15 cited supra, properly expresses the intent of Congress, it is 16 improper for a District Court to consider issues which have 17 not been raised by the Regional Director, to ignore the exper-18 tise of the Regional Director of the Board and to depart from 19 the allegations of the petition and "to roam at will over 20 every aspect of a labor dispute upon the request of a charg-21 ing party." (McLeod, supra, 300 F.2d at p. 243) That such 22 an inquiry was loosed in the District Court is clearly evi-23 denced from the memoranda filed by the charging parties in 24 opposition to the stipulation and from the District Court's 25 refusal to approve the stipulation without any showing on the 26 part of such charging parties of irreparable injury to the 1 public or to themselves.

2 By order of this Court, dated July 2, 1965, and corrected
3 July 14, 1965, the charging parties in the court below have 4 been denied their application to intervene as parties appellee
5 and have been relegated to the position of amici curiae, con-
6 sistent with the decision of Circuit Judge Bone in Retail 7 Clerks International Association v. National Labor Relations
8 Board, cited supra. (See 243 F.2d p. 783, footnote 12) This 9 Court has, in Haleston Drug Stores, Inc., v. NLRB (1950), 10 190 F.2d 1022, similarly denied intervention to charging 11 parties as has the Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit in 12 Fafnir Bldg. Co. v. NLRB (1964), 339 F.2d 801, and see cases
13 cited therein at 339 F.2d p. 802. The wisdom of this rule 14 lies in preventing "the danger of over-involvement on the 15 part of Federal Courts" in the statutory scheme for the ad-16 ministration of the Labor Management Relations Act by the 17 National Labor Relations Board. (McLeod v. Mechanics Con-18 ference Board, supra, 300 F.2d at p. 242)

19 These Appellants are unable to cite to the court a case
20 decided by a Federal Court on the narrow question of limita-
21 tions of discretion that may be exercised by the United States
22 District Court in accepting, approving or refusing the settle-23 ment of an action arising under Section 10(1) of the Labor 24 Management Relations Act which is proposed and approved by 25 the National Labor Relations Board. We believe, and respect-26 fully urge upon this court, that the authorities cited herein

1 supra compel the conclusion that the District Court's discre-
2 tion in such instance is greatly limited and that the scope 3 of inquiry in the exercise of this discretion is, and should 4 be, limited to a determination of whether or not such a 5 settlement will have any adverse effect upon the policies 6 enunciated in the Labor Management Relations Act or upon the 7 public for whom it is administered. The Court of Appeals for 8 the Seventh Circuit has pointed the way in this direction in 9 Aluminum Ore Co. v. NLRB (1942), 131 F.2d 485, at p. 488:

10 "This proceeding is in the public interest,
11 prosecuted by an authorized agency of the Govern-12 ment, in furtherance of an express policy and 13 intent upon the part of Congress to establish, 14 in behalf of the national public, a standard of 15 conduct presumably productive of progress in pro-
16 tection of the public welfare. In such proceed-17 ings, private parties have no rightful place ex-18 cept as the court may desire to avail itself with 19 helpful suggestions."

20 In accord are many decisions of the District Courts 21 throughout the country. See, e.g., Douds v. Wine, Liquor and 22 Distillery Workers Union, Local 1, et al. (S.D. N.Y., 1948),
23 75 F. Supp. 447; Phillips v. United Mining Workers, District
24 19 (E.D. Tenn., 1963), 218 F. Supp. 103.

25 -----

26 -----

1 III. THE DISTRICT COURT IS WITHOUT JURISDICTION UNDER THE 2 LABOR MANAGEMENT RELATIONS ACT TO ENJOIN CONDUCT
3 NEITHER COMPLAINED OF BY THE NATIONAL LABOR RELATIONS 4 BOARD NOR IN VIOLATION OF THE ACT.

5 If it be remembered that the Regional Director, on June 6 30, 1964, filed a petition in the District Court for injunc-
7 tive relief pursuant to Section 10(1) of the Labor Management 8 Relations Act (TR 15), that on the same date and in that 9 prior case a stipulation to refrain from unfair labor prac-
10 tices was executed by the Regional Director, these Appellants, 11 and Appellee Food Employers Council, and approved by the 12 District Court (TR 15), and that the said action was, on Decem-13 ber 3, 1964, dismissed by stipulation of all of the said par-
14 ties upon agreement that the former stipulation would remain 15 in effect (TR 48-49), the gravamen of the petition for in-16 junctive relief in this case is set forth in Paragraph 8 of 17 the petition. (TR 16)

18 In addition to the allegations in the petition that the 19 clauses in Article I of the labor agreement between Appellants
20 and Appellee will have an effect proscribed by Section 8(e)
21 of the Act, the Regional Director has alleged, in Paragraph 8 22 of the petition, that Appellant Local 770, in its efforts to 23 submit certain issues regarding interpretation of the contract 24 to arbitration and its attempt to compel Appellee to partici-
25 pate in an arbitral proceeding by a petition for such relief
26 in the Superior Court, Appellant Local 770 has thereby entered

1 into, invoked and/or given effect to the clauses which are 2 contended to be in violation of Section 8(e) of the Act.
3 Paragraph 8 of the petition addresses itself solely to the 4 actions of Appellant Local 770 seeking an order of court re-
5 quiring that the Food Employers Council join in such arbitra-
6 tion. Thereafter, Appellant Local 770 dismissed its suit in 7 the Superior Court for the County of Los Angeles. (Reporter's 8 Transcript, p. 20) Thus, it is clear from the record that the 9 principal and only conduct of these Appellants which the 10 Regional Director deemed to be in furtherance of an unlawful 11 contract has been fully and finally terminated by Appellants; 12 and it is submitted that whether or not seeking the aid of a 13 court of general jurisdiction of this State is in effectua-
14 tion or furtherance of an unlawful agreement has become moot 15 and should not have been considered by the District Court in 16 fashioning its decree.

17 It follows that the arbitration which the District Court 18 enjoined must be, if it is to take place, a voluntarily con-19 stituted proceeding at which these Appellants will urge upon 20 the arbitrator the necessity of deciding the questions con-
21 tained in the letter of March 19. (TR 188) Appellee Food 22 Employers Council is free to appear at the proceeding and urge 23 upon the arbitrator the issue of whether or not, under the 24 contract, such questions as are contained in the March 19
25 letter are properly before him, or they may address themselves 26 to the merits of those questions as they deem proper.

1 The attention of this court is directed to the issues
2 outlined in that letter, and particularly to Paragraph 3
3 thereof. (TR 188-189) Appellant Local 770 has conceded its 4 inability to place in effect the clauses under attack in the 5 following language:

6 "As a result of charges filed with the 7 National Labor Relations Board by the Teamsters
8 Union and certain suppliers, Article I has never 9 become operative and cannot become operative dur-
10 ing the term, or a substantial part of the term
11 of our contract, because of the length of time it 12 will require to litigate the Board complaint and 13 subsequent appeals. There is an issue, therefore, 14 as to whether or not the employer is being unjustly
15 enriched because of the inoperativeness of Article
16 I, in that the employer has been able to take advan-17 tage of the (a) broader box-boy duties, (b) new 18 classifications with lower rates for non-food items, 19 and (c) lower apprentice rates, which were given 20 to the employer only upon the understanding of 21 both parties that Article I would be effective and 22 would confer benefits upon the Union."

23 And in Paragraph 6 of the letter (TR 189), Appellant 24 Local 770 gives notice that it seeks an interpretation of an 25 arbitrator that the employer is under an obligation to nego-
26 tiate different and clearly lawful clauses with the Union

1 under Article XXI, Paragraph A of the contract, the "Separa-
2 bility Clause" which provides, inter alia, as follows:

3 "A. The provisions of this Agreement are deemed 4 to be separable to the extent that, if and when a 5 court of last resort adjudges any provisions of this 6 Agreement in its application between the Union and 7 the undersigned Employer to be in conflict with 8 any law, such decision shall not affect the validity 9 of the remaining provisions of this Agreement, but 10 such remaining provisions shall continue in full 11 force and effect, provided further, that in the 12 event any provision or provisions are so declared 13 to be in conflict with a law, both parties shall 14 meet immediately for the purpose of renegotiation 15 and agreement on provision or provisions so in-16 validated." (Government Exhibit 1, p. 18)

17 The position of the Union in this letter is manifestly
18 one of recognition that it is most probable a final decision
19 in the proceedings before the National Labor Relations Board 20 already concluded will not be forthcoming until close to, or 21 after, the termination of the contract, March 31, 1969.
22 (Government Exhibit 1, p. 24) That the Board proceedings may 23 be expected to take fully that length of time is demonstrated 24 in a similar proceeding, Teamsters Local 710 v. NLRB (Wilson 25 and Company) (C.A. D.C., 1964), 335 F.2d 709. This case, upon 26 which Appellants rely heavily before the National Labor

1 Relations Board, was decided by the Court of Appeals for the 2 District of Columbia on June 25, 1964. As the report of the 3 case indicates, the clauses alleged by the Board to be in vio-
4 lation of Section 8(e) of the Act were negotiated between the 5 Union and the employer in 1961. The case was before the 6 Court of Appeals on cross-petitions to enforce an order of the 7 Board and for review of that order; and the Court of Appeals
8 for the District of Columbia remanded the case to the Labor 9 Board for further proceedings in accordance with its opinion.
10 Although it is now five years since the clauses were nego-
11 tiated, no final decision has been entered in that case.
12 Faced with the same prospect, Appellants have sought arbitra-13 tion, in part to interpret the severability clause of the 14 labor agreement, if possible conferring upon Appellant interim 15 relief not in violation of Section 8(e) of the Act. Thus the 16 cornerstone of the arbitral proceeding which the District
17 Court erroneously enjoined is, and must be, the assumption 18 that the clauses in dispute may be found by the Board to be 19 in violation of Section 8(e) of the Act and cannot, therefore, 20 be given any effect whatsoever. From this reference point, 21 Appellants seek, in the forum of arbitration, a decision as 22 to the validity of the remaining portions of the contract.

23 In its Memorandum Decision of May 29, 1965 (TR 168), the 24 District Court cited the case of McLeod v. American Federation
25 of Television and Radio Artists, New York Local (U.S. D.C., 26 S.D. N. Y., 1964), 234 F. Supp. 832, in support of its

1 decision that the stipulation lodged with the court which 2 would allow the arbitration was improper.

3 In that decision, the Union sought to arbitrate what 4 superficially appeared to be the grievance of an individual 5 employee but which the court found, upon examination, to also 6 contain contentions of the Union directly contrary to the posi-
7 tion taken by the National Labor Relations Board in the major 8 proceedings. The court held, 234 F. Supp. at p. 837:

9 "Whether the employer, as a result of union pres-
10 sure, must cease doing business with another em-
11 ployer, or must submit to compulsory arbitration, 12 the union is still implementing an allegedly void
13 and unenforceable clause in a contract. . . ."

14 That the employer here is not placed under any such com-15 pulsion to arbitrate is clear from the dismissal of the 16 Superior Court case seeking such compulsion.

17 The McLeod v. Artists case, supra, also is distinguish-18 able upon the ground that there the Regional Director for the 19 National Labor Relations Board actively and continuously re-20 fused to allow the holding of any arbitral proceeding whatso-21 ever, and requested that the District Court specifically pre-22 clude such a proceeding in its injunctive order. In the in-23 stant case, the stipulation to refrain from unfair labor 24 practices (TR 160) demonstrates that the Board does not take 25 the same position as in McLeod, at all.

26 Finally, this McLeod decision may be entirely distin-

1 guished from the instant case because the matters here to be 2 arbitrated, as stated supra, can only arise as issues for 3 decision by an arbitrator if he, and parties to the proceeding, 4 assume, or concede without admitting, that the clauses under 5 attack here are violative of the Labor Management Relations 6 Act, and therefor cannot be enforced for the term of the 7 agreement.

8 The Regional Director of the National Labor Relations 9 Board has been attacked by the charging parties in the Dis-
10 trict Court in this case for offering the stipulation to re-11 frain from unfair labor practices as doing so "for some undis-
12 closed reason" (TR 131), and as having an unexplained "change
13 of heart". (TR 135)

14 The explanation for the Board's willingness to inspect 15 an arbitration award at a later date is founded on at least 16 five major decisions of the United States Supreme Court deal-17 ing with the place of arbitration in the statutory framework 18 of the Labor Management Relations Act, and many decisions of 19 the National Labor Relations Board indicating its concurrence 20 with the views of the Supreme Court. See, e.g., the "Steel-21 workers Trilogy", which are the landmark decisions of the 22 Supreme Court in this field:

23 United Steelworkers of America v. American Manufac-
24 turing Co., 363 U.S. 564, 80 S. Ct. 1343, 4
25 L.ed.2d 1403 (1960);

26 United Steelworkers of America v. Warrior & Gulf

1 Navigation Co., 363 U.S. 574, 80 S. Ct. 1347, 4 2 L.ed.2d 1409 (1960); and
3 United Steelworkers of America v. Enterprise Wheel
4 & Car Corp., 363 U.S. 593, 80 S. Ct. 1358, 4
5 L.ed.2d 1424 (1960).

6 The doctrine in the Steelworker Trilogy of cases has 7 been, if anything, expanded by the Supreme Court in its more 8 recent decisions. In Carey v. Westinghouse Electric Corp., 9 375 U.S. 261, 84 S. Ct. 401, 11 L.ed.2d 320 (1964), the Inter-
10 national Union of Electrical, etc., Workers filed a grievance 11 with the employer under its collective bargaining agreement 12 asserting that certain employees in a particular section of 13 the plant who were represented by another union were perform-14 ing work within the bargaining unit of the Electrical Workers.
15 The company refused to arbitrate the dispute with the union 16 upon the ground that nothing more than a jurisdictional dis-
17 pute between two unions was involved. In ordering the em-18 ployer to submit to arbitration the grievance put forth by 19 the Electrical Workers, the court held (375 U.S. at p. 268):

20 "However the dispute be considered -- whether 21 one involving work assignment or one concerning 22 representation -- we see no barrier to use of the 23 arbitration procedure. If it is a work assignment 24 dispute, arbitration conveniently fills a gap and 25 avoids the necessity of a strike to bring the matter 26 to the Board. If it is a representation matter,

1 resort to arbitration may have a pervasive, cura-
2 tive effect even though one union is not a party.

3 "By allowing the dispute to go to arbitration
4 its fragmentation is avoided to a substantial extent;
5 and those concilliatory measures which Congress
6 deemed vital to 'industrial peace' (citing case)
7 and which may be dispositive of the entire dispute, 8 are encouraged. The superior authority of the Board
9 may be invoked at any time. Meanwhile the therapy 10 of arbitration is brought to bear in a complicated
11 and troubled area." (Emphasis added.)

12 See also John Wiley and Sons, Inc., v. Livingston, 376
13 U.S. 543, 84 S. Ct. 909, 11 L.ed.2d 898 (1964).

14 The Board has, on innumerable occasions, elected to 15 await an arbitral award and to "invoke its superior authority"
16 only after inspection of such award. See, e.g., Insulation 17 and Specialties, Inc., 144 NLRB No. 149 (1963), in which the 18 Board, in a representation proceeding, elected to await the 19 outcome of an arbitration and to inspect the award after its 20 rendering. For a discussion of the Board's adoption of this 21 concept, see the 28th Annual Report of the National Labor 22 Relations Board for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1963, 23 Chapter 3, Effect of Concurrent Arbitration Proceedings, page 24 38, et seq.

1 CONCLUSION

2 The record before this court, in the form of the plead-3 ings and memoranda filed by the parties and by the charging par-4 ties, and the Reporter's Transcript of the argument in the 5 District Court on June 14, 1965, amply demonstrates that in 6 the proceedings before the District Court, Paragraph (c) of 7 the Order Granting Temporary Injunction and the Order Nunc Pro
8 Tunc was entered solely upon the formal request, and indeed 9 the guidance, of persons who, under Section 10(1) of the 10 Labor Management Relations Act, shall only "be given an oppor-
11 tunity to appear by counsel and to present any relevant testi-
12 mony." The Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit in McLeod 13 v. Mechanics Conference Board, supra, has interpreted, and we 14 submit properly, this section of the Act to prohibit a charg-
15 ing party from doing any more than aiding the Regional Direc-16 tor in achieving the public interest and preventing such 17 charging party's becoming the principal or only complainant.
18 Additionally, the record shows that the District Court has 19 enjoined activity expressly approved by the Labor Board acting 20 in the public interest, activity which has the full support 21 of the decisions of the United States Supreme Court.

22 For these reasons, Appellants ask this Court to reverse 23 the decision of the lower court and enter its order striking 24 Paragraph (c) from the Order Granting Temporary Injunction and
